Thoughts for the Future

“Expect things of yourself.” —Michael Jordan

“Dreams, if they are any good, are always a little crazy.” —Ray Charles

“This is America. We can do anything here.”
—Ted Turner

“Take the breaks in stride.” —Bobby Jones

TRiO Talent Search Students Tour Dothan Attractions

Barbour County sixth grade Talent Search students recently visited Dothan Botanical Gardens in Dothan, Alabama. They received a guided tour and viewed a portion of the beautiful five hundred acre grounds where they saw the tropical greenhouse and local flora and fauna.

In downtown Dothan, the students visited the G. W. Carver Interpretive Museum which is located in a formerly segregated bus station. While downtown they were given a brief tour of the murals painted by various artists on the sides of buildings. The murals included a local man named "Dancing Dave," a wildlife piece by an Eufaula, Alabama artist, and a Dothan church. The students were amazed by the paintings.

TRiO Talent Search Students Tour Dothan Attractions

After the Talent Search students completed their tour of the Dothan murals, they participated in a scavenger hunt searching for the “Social Progress Heroes” on the timeline along the walls of the Carver Museum. Before the visit ended, they participated in a science experiment using food coloring, oil, water, and salt to produce a lava lamp. The students were thrilled with the results.

TRiO Upward Bound Students Participate in Youth Leadership Groups

This year several TRiO Upward Bound members participated in local chamber of commerce youth leadership programs. Students were able to attend training and participate in local chamber business functions throughout the year. Abbeville High School student, Alison Danzey, participated in Henry County. Barbour County High School student, Chauncey Lightner, and Eufaula High School students, Quantasia Allen, Jasmine Walker, Jeneciah Starling, and Zatisa Starling participated with the Eufaula-Barbour Chamber of Commerce.
