

The Writing Center Disclaimer

Students, faculty, staff, and all other parties who use The Writing Center must show respect towards all writing center staff and writing center clients. Any visitor who makes inappropriate comments towards or about writing center staff or writing center clients; fails to stay on topic during a tutoring session for a period of time that any writing center staff member deems unacceptable; raises his or her voice; touches or makes any form of inappropriate physical contact with any writing center staff member or other writing center visitors; or otherwise makes any writing center staff member or writing center visitor feel uncomfortable is subject to additional action, including but not limited to a verbal warning from the writing center coordinator and/or director, a written warning from the writing center coordinator and/or director, supplemental discipline from instructor and/or supervisor, and loss of all writing center privileges. The Writing Center at Wallace Community College reserves the right to move, change, or cancel any appointment with or without notifying the client.

