TRiO Talent Search Seniors Visit Judson College and Selma Landmark

A group of TRiO Talent Search seniors from Abbeville High School, Barbour County High School, and Eufaula High School had the opportunity to visit Judson College in Marion, Alabama for Scholarship and Preview Day. Judson College is a four year private women's college that was founded in 1839. The students were able to learn more about specific majors, test for scholarships, and tour the beautiful campus.

To end the day the students were able to stand on a National Historic Landmark, the Edmund Pettus Bridge in Selma, Alabama. The bridge was the centerpiece of the civil rights movement during the 1960s. Here voting rights marchers were violently confronted by law enforcement personnel on Sunday, March 7, 1965, known as Bloody Sunday.
